

3rd GENMED WORKSHOP ON MEDICAL GENOMICS - 17th & 18th May 2018

The workshop on Medical Genomics aims at uniting the genomic community over two days and will include talks from GENMED partners who will present their latest results in human disease genomics. In addition, internationally renowned speakers will be invited to give general presentations covering broader and innovative topics in the field of “omic” research. The presentations will be grouped into a number of themed sessions presided by chairs that will ensure discussion and interaction of participants, a key component of the workshop. In addition time will be dedicated to ethical considerations when performing genomic research.

The Laboratory of Excellence (LabEx) MEDical GENomics - GENMED – is coordinated by Drs. Jean-François Deleuze & François Cambien. GENMED aims to promote the development of competitive research projects in human diseases both nationally & internationally in the context of Medical Genomics by evaluating, developing and implementing NGS based technologies and methodologies together with integrated analysis of genomic data in a high-throughput production mode. In addition GENMED is involved in education and training initiatives as well as promoting ethical aspects in order to build structural foundations to implement and develop Medical Genomics in France and beyond.
